United Kingdom Country Code: +44
UK's IDD International Prefix: 00

UK's NDD National Prefix: 0

Phone numbers are often written in this format: +44(0)1865-xxxx xxxx. This expresses the numbers used for both international and national long-distance calls. In the example, +44 indicates the country code, while (0) indicates the NDD. When dialing from outside the country, the NDD would not be used after dialing the country code; when dialing from within that country, the NDD would be used, but the country code would not.
